

Nurses meet individually with students impacted by food allergies and anaphylactic issues. Each of these students has an individual health plan. The Administration will investigate ways to incorporate related information into the Health Curriculum.