Homework:

Students should be reading for 20 minutes each night. By now students should be quite fluent with their multiplication facts. Please help students continue to practice these each evening.

We will celebrate Valentine's Day with a small celebration on Monday, February 14. If students choose to participate, they must bring in a Valentine for each student in the class. Attached is our class list. Please let me know if you have any questions.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

In math will continue to review the concepts on multiplication and division with daily review. We have been studying area. We will begin to study graphing, rounding, and should be moving into addition and subtraction within 1,000 by the end of the month.

We will return again to the study of science in February. We will be studying weather and the survival of organisms. We will focus on the study of Black History month during reading time this month.

In reading we are finding information in nonfiction text with the aid of text features. We will start the Article of the Day, read magazine articles, historical texts, and biographies. The expectation will continue to be that students refer explicitly to the text when answering questions.

In writing we have working on to to narrative writing. We are looking at the use of specific details to help the reader visualize what is happening in the story.
